Newton festival promises voyages of discovery

International science, arts, heritage, drama, stunning outdoor theatre and world class speakers come together in September for another superb Gravity Fields Festival (26-30 September).

Its ‘Voyages of Discovery’ theme allows organiser South Kesteven District Council to illustrate the world-changing discoveries of Sir Isaac Newton, locally born and educated and the festival’s inspiration.

It also provides a botanical link to illustrious Lincolnshire naturalist, botanist and patron of the natural sciences Sir Joseph Banks who, like Newton, was President of The Royal Society.

Events in and around Grantham will deliver something for everyone, with a mix of serious and fun science high on the programme and a free Saturday evening spectacular in the town centre set to attract thousands of people.

South Kesteven - Gateway to Lincolnshire

Sitting at the southern gateway to Lincolnshire, our area is one of beautiful countryside with delightful and attractive contrasts, bursting with quintessential English heritage, history, amazing places to stay – and great food.

South Kesteven’s stone towns have historic centres that have been unchanged for centuries, spawning their own traditions, markets and festivals.

Where else can you find a scarecrow festival, a traditional sheep fair, wonderful gardens, castles, historic houses, an artisan chocolatier, the birthplace of arguably the world’s greatest scientist, and England’s finest stone town?

The countryside is home to delightful villages, many with traditional country pubs serving quality local produce, washed down by artisan beers brewed in local micro-breweries.

As a traditional route from London to York and beyond, the A1 gives easy access to a district which typifies the British way of life, its peculiarities and a wealth of tradition. By rail, Grantham itself is just an hour from London’s Kings Cross station.

Once here, the district offers a rare chance to get away from it all, with quiet lanes linking villages, just inviting a good walk or cycle ride.

Many local pubs offer boutique accommodation.

Our churches are legendary, from Stamford’s dreaming spires to the magnificence of St Wulfram’s Church in Grantham, a visitor attraction in its own right, and the country churches honouring the fallen from two world wars.

Stay in magnificent hotels, from the Beautiful countryside typifies the area

George Hotel in Stamford to the country house splendour of Stoke Rochford Hall.

Rutland Water, one of the largest man made lakes in Europe, lies just to the west of Stamford, with a multitude of leisure pursuits including watersports, cycling, fishing and bird watching.

No stay in Stamford is complete without a visit to Burghley House, one of the largest and grandest of the first Elizabethan Age, with its orangery, restaurant, gift shop, gardens and beautiful walks around the historic Capability Brown designated parkland.

Ellys Manor at Great Ponton is a true heritage gem, a 15th century wool merchant’s Manor House, with fabulous late medieval wall paintings.

Easy to get to, charmingly English in so many ways and with a warm welcome to all, South Kesteven awaits you.

IMMERSE YOURSELF IN THE GEORGIAN ERA IN ENGLAND’S ‘FINEST STONE TOWN’

With its honey-coloured stone and cobbled streets, narrow alleyways and hidden courtyards, Stamford is a wonderfully picturesque and relaxing place to escape the everyday and spend some quality time.

No wonder it was named the ‘Best place to live in Britain’ by The Sunday Times in 2013.

Whether you’ve got a couple of hours or a few days to spare, you’ll soon lose yourself in the town’s enviable collection of niche shops, tea rooms, eateries and designer boutiques. There’s a bustling Friday market, with a farmers’ market every fortnight.

The Meadows plays host to family-friendly community events including the town’s annual food and drink festival, a three-day antiques, collectors and vintage fair, classic car show and music festival.

The vibrant Stamford Arts Centre was built in 1768 and is one of the oldest – and finest - provincial theatres in England. It’s where you’ll find the Tourist Information Centre, providing accommodation information, walking books, town trails and guide books, and arrange guided Blue Badge walks. Stamford’s ever-popular Ghost Walks start from the Arts Centre.

Browne’s Hospital on Broad Street is one of the best preserved medieval almshouses in the country.

The Arts Centre plays a key role in the day and nightlife enjoyed by the local community.
and visitors alike. It hosts exhibitions, workshops, live theatre, films and satellite screenings of internationally acclaimed performances and a live comedy club in The Cellar Bar every month.

Follow Stamford’s special pub maps - available from the Arts Centre - before finishing off the evening at a pub to enjoy some of the town’s vibrant live music scene.

Visitors to Stamford can’t help but notice its architectural legacy; it has retained whole streets entirely made up of Georgian houses, attracting tourists to see the backdrop to much-loved period dramas like Middlemarch and Pride and Prejudice.

Proclaimed by Sir Walter Scott as ‘the finest stone town in England’ and boasting over 600 listed limestone buildings, including five medieval churches in the town centre, Stamford was proud to be named the country’s first conservation area in 1967.

Grantham has always been synonymous with travel and as a perfect place to rest and recuperate.

Today the town is well known for its proximity to the A1 and rail links, but it’s so much more than a stopping off-point. It’s a fabulous, historic destination in its own right.

Grantham enjoys a rich history. It lies close to an ancient Roman road and was, in 1643, the scene of Oliver Cromwell’s first win over the Royalists during the English Civil War, at Gonerby Moor.

Mentioned as a Royal Manor in the Domesday Book, Grantham was a stopping place for kings and nobleman. The Angel and Royal Hotel in the High Street is one of the oldest surviving English inns and was originally built as a hostel for the Knights’ Templar.

Beautiful St. Wulfram’s Church has the highest spire of any medieval church in the country, a 14th century crypt and a chained library housed in the priest’s room. Enjoy the visitor centre in the north porch or one of the regular concerts and choral performances.

Grantham Museum has a permanent exhibition dedicated to one of the town’s most famous daughters and the country’s first female Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher.

Another first was Edith Smith, the first female police constable in England to be given full powers of arrest in 1915.

The biennial Gravity Fields Festival (26-30 September 2018) is a highlight in the town’s events calendar. Sir Isaac Newton was born just south of Grantham at Woolsthorpe Manor and went to King’s School in the town from the age of 12 to 17, before attending Trinity College, Cambridge in 1661.

The Guildhall Arts Centre is the town’s hub for community activities, performances...
Grantham is the largest town in South Lincolnshire.

The town picked up two accolades within as many weeks when it was named as one of the top commuter towns in the country with good value property and one of the best towns to live in Britain.

Originally known for its engineering heritage, the Grantham of today offers outstanding education opportunities and a wonderful quality of life.

Grantham is famous for its gingerbread. Grantham Town FC is known as The Gingerbreads.

Wyndham Park, which attracts more than 850,000 visitors a year, secured its 6th successive Green Flag award in 2017.

and the local arts scene and promotes larger events for ‘Meres Live’ - held at the Meres Leisure Centre and boasting sell-out events for some of entertainment’s biggest names.

As well as championship standard 18-hole golf courses, smaller rural courses and unrivalled countryside for walking, riding and cycling, the town boasts splendid parks and open spaces.

A traditional Saturday street market is complemented by a prosperous farmers’ market on the second Saturday of each month. Grantham’s cafe culture is going from strength to strength, with specialist cafes thriving alongside restaurants and hosteries for every palate and budget.

Foodies from far and wide travel to Great Gonerby to dine at the award-winning ‘Harry’s Place’ – renowned as the smallest restaurant in the Michelin Guide. Book early!

ENJOY A TRIP BACK INTO MOTOR RACING HISTORY

A thriving market town with ancient roots, Bourne has a charm all of its own. Significant regeneration has added a spring to Bourne’s step, with a variety independent shops lining the streets and a traditional market on Thursdays.

Visitors to Bourne can browse to their hearts’ content on account of the free parking in the town – a rare treat these days.

The Heritage Museum is a popular visitor attraction in Baldock’s Mill, Bourne’s only remaining mill of the three listed in the Domesday Book, complete with its new mill wheel.

The museum brings history to life, from the water and railway industries to agriculture, wartime memorabilia and Raymond Mays, Bourne’s most famous racing driver. Known worldwide as the birthplace of motor racing, the town celebrates a motor racing heritage that saw Graham Hill and Jackie Stewart at the wheel of Bourne-manufactured Formula 1 cars.

Renowned for its open spaces, parks and woodland and with 71 listed buildings, Bourne has a pleasant setting with attractive countryside and villages to visit. Close to the town is one of the best walking areas in the district – Bourne Wood – a Forestry Commission-owned remnant of the wild wood that cloaked England after the last ice age. With miles of accessible, well-marked tracks and a large picnic area, it’s the perfect place to enjoy some fresh air and exercise.

To the west, Grimsthorpe Castle is open from April to September. Built in 1540 for a visit by Henry VIII, it has magnificent state rooms with collections, tapestries and paintings, 3,000 acres of landscaped parkland, gardens, an adventure playground, cycle trail and hire shop.

Nestling beside the River Welland, on the southern borders of South Kesteven, sits the town of Market Deeping and the villages of Deeping St James, West Deeping and Langtoft.

Collectively known as The Deepings, there is a wealth of local history to explore alongside the trappings of modern day life. Now considered one of best districts to live in, according to a Halifax Quality of Life survey.

There are notable inns, award-winning restaurants and a good range of independent cafés and shops, as well as stunning countryside to explore. Market Deeping’s market is held every Wednesday. The beautiful Grade 1 listed Church of St Guthlac appeals to visitors and locals alike. There is an Antiques and Craft Centre open to the public seven days a week, with antique furniture, books, pictures and lots more.

The magnificent church of St James in Deeping St James is actually the nave of a Benedictine priory, home to monks from nearby Thorney Abbey in 1139. Many periods of architecture are represented here, including a rare 18th century tower.

2018 brings a unique chance for South Kesteven to join international celebrations marking the formation of the Royal Air Force.

RAF100 is a commemorative programme tracing 100 years of aviation heritage, with South Kesteven proudly charting its own unique milestones.

A local programme of events is being drawn up to complement others across the county as befits a district where aviation has left lasting memories.

RAF Harlaxton was home to the Royal Flying Corps in the years running up to 1918 and housed airborne forces during WWII.

In Grantham, St Vincent’s House has aviation heritage in every stone; HQ for Bomber Command in WWII, Operations Room for the 1943 Dambusters’ Raid by 617 Squadron and HQ for American airborne co-ordination for D-Day.

Stop amidst the wooded peace of Twyford Wood near Colsterworth and you can imagine the roar of huge American transport aircraft carrying elite paratroopers behind enemy lines on the eve of D-Day itself.

WWI flying ace Captain Albert Ball attended the King’s School in Grantham; just one more strand in a chequered local aviation history.

All commemorative events, walks and talks will be added to an RAF100 diary on www.southwestlincs.com.
